

AUTHOR INDEX
Advances in Nursing Science
Volume 10

A

- Agan, R. David: Intuitive knowing as a dimension of nursing. 1987;10(1):63-70.
- Allan, Janet D. and Beverly A. Hall: Challenging the focus on technology: A critique of the medical model in a changing health care system. 1988;10(3):22-34.
- Allanach, Elaine J.: Perceived supportive behaviors and nursing occupational stress: An evolution of consciousness. 1988;10(2):73-82.
- Allen, David G.: The social policy statement: A reappraisal. 1987;10(1):39-48.

B

- Barrow, Edward M.: see Rew (1987).
- Becker, Heather: see Rew (1988).

C

- Christensen, Paula J.: An ethical framework for nursing service administration. 1988;10(3):46-55.
- Connors, Denise Donnell: A continuum of researcher-participant relationships: An analysis and critique. 1988;10(4):32-42.
- Cooper, Mary Carolyn: Covenantal relationships: Grounding for the nursing ethic. 1988;10(4):48-59.

D

- DeGroot, Holly A.: Scientific inquiry in nursing: A model for a new age. 1988;10(3):1-21.

F

- Farnham, Rita: see Gaydos (1988).
- Ferketich, Sandra L.: see Mercer (1988).
- Ferrara, Mary: see Packard (1988).
- Fulton, Janet Schwartz: Virginia Henderson: Theorist, prophet, poet. 1987;10(1):1-9.

G

- Gaydos, Linda Silvera and Rita Farnham: Human-animal relationships within the context of Rogers' principle of integrity. 1988;10(4):72-80.

H

- Hall, Beverly A.: see Allan (1988).
- Hinds, Pamela S.: Adolescent hopefulness in illness and health. 1988;10(3):79-88.
- Huggins, Elizabeth A. and Cynthia C. Scalzi: Limitations and alternatives: Ethical practice theory in nursing. 1988;10(4):43-47.

J

- Jennings, Bonnie Mowinski, and Afaf Ibrahim Meleis: Nursing theory and administrative practice: Agenda for the 1990s. 1988;10(3):56-69.

K

- Kane, Catherine F.: Family social support: Toward a conceptual model. 1988;10(2):18-25.
- Keefe, Maureen R.: Irritable infant syndrome: Theoretical perspectives and practice implications. 1988;10(3):70-78.
- Krysl, Marilyn with Jean Watson: Existential moments of caring: Facets of nursing and social support. 1988;10(2):12-17.

M

- Meleis, Afaf Ibrahim: see Jennings (1988).
- Mercer, Ramona T. and Sandra L. Ferketich: Stress and social support as predictors of anxiety and depression during pregnancy. 1988;10(2):26-39.
- Moccia, Patricia: A critique of compromise: Beyond the methods debate. 1988;10(4):1-9.

P

- Packard, John S. and Mary Ferrara: In search of the moral foundation of nursing. 1988;10(4):60-71.
- Powers, Bethel Ann: Social networks, social support, and elderly institutionalized people. 1988;10(2):40-58.

R

- Ramos, Mary Carol: Adopting an evolutionary lens: An optimistic approach to discovering strength in nursing. 1987;10(1):19-26.
- Rew, Lynn and Edward M. Barrow: Intuition: A neglected hallmark of nursing knowledge. 1987;10(1):49-62.
- Rew, Lynn and Edward M. Barrow: Intuition: A neglected hallmark of nursing knowledge. 1987;10(1):49-62.
- Reynolds, Cheryl L.: The measurement of health in nursing research. 1988;10(4):23-31.
- Roberts, Susan Jo: Social support and help seeking: Review of the literature. 1988;10(2):1-11.
- Robinson, Karen Meier: A social skills training program for adult caregivers. 1988;10(2):59-72.

S

- Sandelowski, Margaret: A case of conflicting paradigms: Nursing and reproductive technology. 1988;10(3):35-45.
- Scalzi, Cynthia C.: see Huggins (1988).
- Schultz, Phyllis R.: When client means more than one: Extending the foundational concept of person. 1987;10(1):71-86.
- Stuppy, Dorothy: see Rew (1988).

T

Thompson, Janice L.: Critical scholarship: The critique of domination in nursing. 1987;10(1):27-38.

W

Watson, Jean: Nursing on the caring edge: Metaphorical vignettes. 1987;10(1):10-18.

Watson, Jean: see Krysl (1988).

SUBJECT INDEX Advances in Nursing Science Volume 10

A

Administration

An ethical framework for nursing service administration. (Christensen) 1988;10(3):46-55.

Nursing theory and administrative practice: Agenda for the 1990s. (Jennings and Meleis) 1988;10(3):56-69.

Adolescence

Adolescent hopefulness in illness and health. (Hinds) 1988;10(3):79-88.

American Journal of Nursing

Intuition: A neglected hallmark of nursing knowledge. (Rew and Barrow) 1987;10(1):49-62.

Anxiety

Stress and social support as predictors of anxiety and depression during pregnancy. (Mercer and Ferketich) 1988;10(2):26-39.

Art

Intuitive knowing as a dimension of nursing. (Agan) 1987;10(1):63-70.

Virginia Henderson: Theorist, prophet, poet. (Fulton) 1987;10(1):1-9.

C

Cancer

Adolescent hopefulness in illness and health. (Hinds) 1988;10(3):79-88.

Caring

Existential moments of caring: Facets of nursing and social support. (Krysl and Watson) 1988;10(2):12-17.

Nursing on the caring edge: Metaphorical vignettes. (Watson) 1987;10(1):10-18.

A social skills training program for adult caregivers. (Robinson) 1988;10(2):59-72.

Community

When client means more than one: Extending the foundational concept of person. (Schultz) 1987;10(1):71-86.

Concept analysis

When client means more than one: Extending the foundational concept of person. (Schultz) 1987;10(1):71-86.

Consciousness

Nursing on the caring edge: Metaphorical vignettes. (Watson) 1987;10(1):10-18.

Perceived supportive behaviors and nursing occupational stress: An evolution of consciousness. (Allanach) 1988;10(2):73-82.

Coping

Social networks, social support, and elderly institutionalized people. (Powers) 1988;10(2):40-58.

Covenantal relationships

Covenantal relationships: Grounding for the nursing ethic. (Cooper) 1988;10(4):48-59.

Creativity

Scientific inquiry in nursing: A model for a new age. (DeGroot) 1988;10(3):1-21.

Critical scholarship

A case of conflicting paradigms: Nursing and reproductive technology. (Sandelowski) 1988;10(3):35-45.

Challenging the focus on technology: A critique of the medical model in a changing health care system. (Allan and Hall) 1988;10(3):22-34.

Critical scholarship: The critique of domination in nursing. (Thompson) 1987;10(1):27-38.

Critique and Replication (10:4)

Construct validity in instrument development: A vital link between practice, research and theory. (Rew, Stuppy, and Becker) 1988;10(4):10-22.

A continuum of researcher-participant relationships: An analysis and critique. (Connors) 1988;10(4):32-42.

Covenantal relationships: Grounding for the nursing ethic. (Cooper) 1988;10(4):48-59.

A critique of compromise: Beyond the methods debate (Moccia). 1988;10(4):1-9.

Limitations and alternatives: Ethical practice theory in nursing. (Huggins and Scalzi) 1988;10(4):43-47.

The measurement of health in nursing research. (Reynolds) 1988;10(4):23-31.

In search of the moral foundation of nursing. (Packard and Ferrara) 1988;10(4):60-71.

Crying behavior

Irritable infant syndrome: Theoretical perspectives and practice implications. (Keefe) 1988;10(3):70-78.

D

Decision making

An ethical framework for nursing service administration. (Christensen) 1988;10(3):46-55.

Intuition: A neglected hallmark of nursing knowledge. (Rew and Barrow) 1987;10(1):49-62.

Depression

Stress and social support as predictors of anxiety and depression during pregnancy. (Mercer and Ferketich) 1988;10(2):26-39.

Development, human

Irritable infant syndrome: Theoretical perspectives and practice implications. (Keefe) 1988;10(3):70-78.

Domination

Critical scholarship: The critique of domination in nursing. (Thompson) 1987;10(1):27-38.

E

Elderly

Social networks, social support, and elderly institutionalized people. (Powers) 1988;10(2):40-58.

A social skills training program for adult caregivers. (Robinson) 1988;10(2):59-72.

Energy

Human-animal relationships within the context of Rogers' principle of integrality. (Gaydos and Farnham) 1988;10(4):72-80.

Environment

Family social support: Toward a conceptual model. (Kane) 1988;10(2):18-25.

Human-animal relationships within the context of Rogers' principle of integrality. (Gaydos and Farnham) 1988;10(4):72-80.

When client means more than one: Extending the foundational concept of person. (Schultz) 1987;10(1):71-86.

Esteem

Social networks, social support, and elderly institutionalized people. (Powers) 1988;10(2):40-58.

Esthetics

Virginia Henderson: Theorist, prophet, poet. (Fulton) 1987;10(1):1-9.

Ethics

Covenantal relationships: Grounding for the nursing ethic. (Cooper) 1988;10(4):48-59.

An ethical framework for nursing service administration. (Christensen) 1988;10(3):46-55.

Limitations and alternatives: Ethical practice theory in nursing. (Huggins and Scalzi) 1988;10(4):43-47.

Ethnography

Social networks, social support, and elderly institutionalized people. (Powers) 1988;10(2):40-58.

Evolution

Adopting an evolutionary lens: An optimistic approach to discovering strength in nursing. (Ramos) 1987;10(1):19-26.

Nursing on the caring edge: Metaphorical vignettes. (Watson) 1987;10(1):10-18.

Perceived supportive behaviors and nursing occupational stress: An evolution of consciousness. (Allanach) 1988;10(2):73-82.

Existential experience

Existential moments of caring: Facets of nursing and social support. (Krysl and Watson) 1988;10(2):12-17.

F

Family

Family social support: Toward a conceptual model. (Kane) 1988;10(2):18-25.

Feminism

Critical scholarship: The critique of domination in nursing. (Thompson) 1987;10(1):27-38.

G

Grounded theory

Adolescent hopefulness in health and illness. (Hinds) 1988;10(3):79-88.

H

Health behaviors

Social support and help seeking: Review of the literature. (Roberts) 1988;10(2):1-11.

Health care system

Challenging the focus on technology: A critique of the medical model in a changing health care system. (Allan and Hall) 1988;10(3):22-34.

Health, concept of

The measurement of health in nursing research. (Reynolds) 1988;10(4):23-31.

Nursing theory and administrative nursing practice: Agenda for the 1990s. (Jennings and Meleis) 1988;10(3):56-59.

Help seeking

Social support and help seeking: Review of the literature. (Roberts) 1988;10(2):1-11.

Henderson, Virginia

Virginia Henderson: Theorist, prophet, poet. (Fulton) 1987;10(1):1-9.

Holism

Intuitive knowing as a dimension of nursing. (Agan) 1987;10(1):63-70.

Hopefulness

Adolescent hopefulness in health and illness. (Hinds) 1988;10(3):79-88.

I*Infancy*

Irritable infant syndrome: Theoretical perspectives and practice implications. (Keefe) 1988;10(3):70-78.

Inquiry

Scientific inquiry in nursing: A model for a new age. (DeGroot) 1988;10(3):1-21.

Instrument development

Construct validity in instrument development: A vital link between practice, research and theory. (Rew, Stuppy, and Becker) 1988;10(4):10-22.

The measurement of health in nursing research. (Reynolds) 1988;10(4):23-31.

Integrality

Human-animal relationships within the context of Rogers' principle of integrality. (Gaydos and Farnham) 1988;10(4):72-80.

Interaction

Family social support: Toward a conceptual model. (Kane) 1988;10(2):18-25.

Intuition

Intuition: A neglected hallmark of nursing knowledge. (Rew and Barrow) 1987;10(1):49-62.

Intuitive knowing as a dimension of nursing. (Agan) 1987;10(1):63-70.

L*Lack of support*

Social support and help seeking: Review of the literature. (Roberts) 1988;10(2):1-11.

M*Medical model*

Challenging the focus on technology: A critique of the medical model in a changing health care system. (Allan and Hall) 1988;10(3):22-34.

Metaphor

Nursing on the caring edge: Metaphorical vignettes. (Watson) 1987;10(1):10-18.

Moral principles

Covenantal relationships: Grounding for the nursing ethic. (Cooper) 1988;10(4):48-59.

In search of the moral foundation of nursing. (Packard and Ferrara) 1988;10(4):60-71.

N*Nursing, concept of* Nursing theory and administrative practice: Agenda for the 1990s. (Jennings and Meleis) 1988;10(3):56-69.

The social policy statement: A reappraisal. (Allen) 1987;10(1):39-48.

O*Occupational stress*

Perceived supportive behaviors and nursing occupational stress: An evolution of consciousness. (Allanach) 1988;10(2):73-82.

P*Paradigm*

A case of conflicting paradigms: Nursing and reproductive technology. (Sandelowski) 1988;10(3):35-45.

Challenging the focus on technology: A critique of the medical model in a changing health care system. (Allan and Hall) 1988;10(3):22-34.

A continuum of researcher-participant relationships: Analysis and critique. (Connors) 1988;10(4):32-42.

Virginia Henderson: Theorist, prophet, poet. (Fulton) 1987;10(1):1-9.

Person, concept of

Nursing theory and administrative practice: Agenda for the 1990s. (Jennings and Meleis) 1988;10(3):56-69.

The social policy statement: A reappraisal. (Allen) 1987;10(1):39-48.

When client means more than one: Extending the foundational concept of person. (Schultz) 1987;10(1):71-86.

Philosophy of science

Adopting an evolutionary lens: An optimistic approach to discovering strength in nursing. (Ramos) 1987;10(1):19-26.

A case of conflicting paradigms: Nursing and reproductive technology. (Sandelowski) 1988;10(3):35-45.

A critique of compromise: Beyond the methods debate. (Moccia) 1988;10(4):1-9.

In search of the moral foundation of nursing. (Packard and Ferrara) 1988;10(4):60-71.

Poetry

Existential moments of caring: Facets of nursing and social support. (Krysl and Watson) 1988;10(2):12-17.

Nursing on the caring edge: Metaphorical vignettes. (Watson) 1987;10(1):10-18.

Virginia Henderson: Theorist, prophet, poet. (Fulton) 1987;10(1):1-9.

Power

Critical scholarship: The critique of domination in nursing. (Thompson) 1987;10(1):27-38.

Problem solving

Scientific inquiry in nursing: A model for a new age. (DeGroot) 1988;10(3):1-26.

QQualitative study

Intuitive knowing as a dimension of nursing. (Agan) 1987;10(1):63-70.

RReliability

The measurement of health in nursing research. (Reynolds) 1988;10(4):23-31.

Reproduction

A case of conflicting paradigms: Nursing and reproductive technology. (Sandelowski) 1988;10(3):35-45.

Research methods

A continuum of researcher-participant relationships: An analysis and critique. (Connors) 1988;10(4):32-42.

A critique of compromise: Beyond the methods debate. (Moccia) 1988;10(4):1-9.

Rogers, Martha E.

Human-animal relationships within the context of Rogers' principle of integrality. (Gaydos and Farnham) 1988;10(4):72-80.

Perceived supportive behaviors and nursing occupational stress: An evolution of consciousness. (Allanach) 1988;10(2):73-82.

SScience

Scientific inquiry in nursing: A model for a new age. (DeGroot) 1988;10(3):1-21.

Social policy statement

The social policy statement: A reappraisal. (Allen) 1987;10(1):39-48.

Social Support (10:2)

Existential moments of caring: Facets of nursing and social support. (Krysl and Watson) 1988;10(2):12-17.

Family social support: Toward a conceptual model. (Kane) 1988;10(2):18-25.

Perceived supportive behaviors and nursing occupational stress: An evolution of consciousness. (Allanach) 1988;10(2):73-82.

Social networks, social support, and elderly institutionalized people. (Powers) 1988;10(2):40-58.

A social skills training program for adult caregivers. (Robinson) 1988;10(2):59-72.

Social support and help seeking: Review of the literature. (Roberts) 1988;10(2):1-11.

Stress and social support as predictors of anxiety and depression during pregnancy. (Mercer and Ferketich) 1988;10(2):26-39.

Society, concept of Nursing theory and administrative nursing practice: Agenda for the 1990s. (Jennings and Meleis) 1988;10(3):56-69.

The social policy statement: A reappraisal. (Allen) 1987;10(1):39-48.

State of the Art (10:1)

Adopting an evolutionary lens: An optimistic approach to discovering strength in nursing. (Ramos) 1987;10(1):19-26.

Critical scholarship: The critique of domination in nursing. (Thompson) 1987;10(1):27-38.

Intuition: A neglected hallmark of nursing knowledge. (Rew and Barrow) 1987;10(1):49-62.

Intuitive knowing as a dimension of nursing. (Agan) 1987;10(1):63-70.

Nursing on the caring edge: Metaphorical vignettes. (Watson) 1987;10(1):10-18.

Virginia Henderson: Theorist, prophet, poet. (Fulton) 1987;10(1):1-9.

When client means more than one: Extending the foundational concept of person. (Schultz) 1987;10(1):71-86.

Stress

Stress and social support as predictors of anxiety and depression during pregnancy. (Mercer and Ferketich) 1988;10(2):26-39.

TTechnology

A case of conflicting paradigms: Nursing and reproductive technology. (Sandelowski) 1988;10(3):35-45.

Challenging the focus on technology: A critique of the medical model in a changing health care system. (Allan and Hall) 1988;10(3):22-34.

Theory and Practice (10:3)

Adolescent hopefulness in illness and health. (Hinds) 1988;10(3):79-88.

A case of conflicting paradigms: Nursing and reproductive technology. (Sandelowski) 1988;10(3):35-45.

Challenging the focus on technology: A critique of the medical model in a changing health care system. (Allan and Hall) 1988;10(3):22-34.

An ethical framework for nursing service administration. (Christensen) 1988;10(3):46-55.

Irritable infant syndrome: Theoretical perspectives and practice implications. (Keefe) 1988;10(3):70-78.

Nursing theory and administrative nursing practice: Agenda for the 1990s. (Jennings and Meleis) 1988;10(3):56-69.

Scientific inquiry in nursing: A model for a new age. (DeGroot) 1988;10(3):1-21.

Theory development

Adopting an evolutionary lens: An optimistic approach to discovering strength in nursing. (Ramos) 1987; 10(1):19-26.

Construct validity in instrument development: A vital link between practice, research and theory. (Rew, Stuppy, and Becker) 1988;10(4):10-22.

Irritable infant syndrome: Theoretical perspectives and practice implications. (Keefe) 1988;10(3):70-78.

Limitations and alternatives: Ethical practice theory in nursing. (Huggins and Scalzi) 1988;10(4):43-47.

The measurement of health in nursing research. (Reynolds) 1988;4:23-31.

V

Validity

Construct validity in instrument development: A vital link between practice, research and theory. (Rew, Stuppy, and Becker) 1988;10(4):10-22.

The measurement of health in nursing research. (Reynolds) 1988;10(4):23-31.

